A Killing in MeLean. We have received from very reliable ources, a full account of a tragedy in McLean county, last Wednesday.

Thomas Nally, a farmer residing about midway between Livermore and Calhoon, had in the early spring, agreed day. with John Tanner, of color, to furnish the latter with ground for a tobacco crop, and agreed also to furnish provisions for his family.

Tanner promised to pay Nally from the proceeds of the tobacco crop. After the eron was cured, and ready for housing, the negro wanted to haul it off and nouse it on different premises. To this day. Nally objected; the negro became very angry, drew a pistol, and threatened to shoot. The parties at this time were in the tobacco field.

Nally, fearing another attack from Panner, went to the house to arm himself, but finding he had no shot, went immediately to Livermore, where he provided himself with a supply of buckshot. During his absence Tanner in a boisterous and threatening manner, went to the house and insulted and frightened Nally's family, and threatened to kill the latter as soon as he saw him. On returning from Livermore, and having learned of Tanner's actions The skating rink was re-opened last Nally deemed it best to go to Calhoon and have a warrant issued for the colored man's arrest. He had proceeded but a short distance toward the county seat, when he met Tanner in the week road armed with a rifle gun. The white man was on horse-back, his double-barrel shot-gun lying in front of him. The quarrel was renewed. Tanner lowered his rifle to shoot. Nally depressed the

We do not propose to offer violence to the officers, but merely to elude them for the present. We were informed that a very ugly writ was sworn out against us, and that the officers had vowed to take us, dead or alive. Joe proposed that he would give himself up, because, he said, he had done nothing which would cause him to be fined. His friends prevailed nesday, following the alleged outrage, but no attempt at arrest was made. On the night of Wednesday, about 16 or 11 o'clock P. M., a friend came to me (Lafe) and told me the officers had a writ for me, and advised me to get away. I could not believe it, as I had done nothing to be arrested for. This is our only reason for not giving ourselves up. JOE AND LAFE BARTLETT. On the Monday after the said alleged ontrage, Mathias Zarth told Mr. W. L. Miller, a well known citizen of Whitesville, that the boys (the Bartletts) were at his house on Saturday night, drinking, and cut up a little, and said that some persons wanted him to go to law about it, but he said he did not want to do so, and further, that he wanted to see the boys, or the old man, and settle the matter; but he said nothing about a rape having been attemped or committed. Mr. Milller further states, that Zarth said the boys had a bottle of whisky with them, and that Lafe drank two or three times, but that his wife would not let Joe drink. Mr. Miller authorizes the publication of the foregoing. A family lives about 75 yards from the Zarth house, one of the children was so sick that neighbors sat up with it on the night of the supposed outrage. The people say that such an affair could turned yesterday, after a short stay at not have taken place without their knowledge. In this whole matter, there is a hid daughter left last week for their home den power, certain gentlemen are
